EFFECT OF GREEN HRM PRACTICES ON EMPLOYEES WORKPLACE

Prof. KALAIARASAN C, Research Scholar, IDIE, University of Madras
Dr. THIENMOZHI S, Assistant Professor, Patrician College of Arts & Science

ABSTRACT

Green HRM is defined as an environment friendly HR practice that contributes to the sustainable usage of resources in the industrial sectors all over the sphere. The perception has primarily attracted conceptualization attention, rather than any extensive empirical attention. However, it has begun to gain traction and increased academic interest within the management field, because of its potential contribution to improving corporate environmental performance, and its implicit influence over employee workplace behaviors. The objective of the study is to determine the level of satisfaction with reference to gender and to analysis relationship between overall Satisfaction level with E-Payroll System and E-Attendance. Convenient sampling and snow bowling technique were used as sampling technique. Since the research study focuses on satisfaction of the employees on green HRM practices of both men and women. The findings of the study appear to suggest organizations across the globe are absorbing Green HRM as a proactive step towards protecting the environment. So in this paper, researcher have made an attempt to encourage the importance of Green HRM in polluting industries and to study the latest environmental friendly solutions to keep on Green in the Human Resource Function.

KEY WORDS: Green HRM, employee satisfaction

INTRODUCTION

In recent years, the environmental matter has developed as one of the serious societal priorities and as an innovative development strategy of societies. Thus, this subject has been attracting many management scholars because of the strategic significance of emerging a sustainable organization. The "green" human resource management (GHRM), known as "environmental" human resource management, is deliberated as an essential tool for the effective implication of the organization's sustainable development strategy. In fact, the quest for reaching a GHRM can be found at the global level since it brings not only benefits for organizations, such as environmental performance and sustainable performance, but it also motivates individuals to commit in green activities and produce green ideas. Therefore, when a person commits to the environmental goals, she or he has an appropriate change in attitudes and behavior to pursue the green value of the organization. Moreover, their belief towards the in-built benefit of environmental commitment is combined and, subsequently, they are willing to exert extra effort to attain the success of organization's green goals.

LITERATURE REVIEW

According to SuhaimiSudin (2011), green management initiatives has become an important factor as far as the business is concerned. Also researchers agree that employees must be inspired, empowered and environmentally aware of greening to carry out green management initiatives. The paper also focuses on the development of a new model of strategic Green HRM which includes relationship between assessment based HR interventions, environmental management system, Green intellectual capital and corporate environmental citizenship.

Robert Stoesser (2000) stated that the websites of some key corporations have the capability to accept electronic resumes, for the bulk of small and mid-sized businesses, including many banks. Some banks are considering offering "E-Recruitment" service for their marketable customers. They offer this as

This research attempts to understand how the employee turnover affects the Education sector and its major challenge of adding a considerable cost to the sector. Also, this study assesses the causes of employee turnover from the employee's perspective. Understanding the connection of employee turnover on various managerial in view of the education sector, especially self-financed arts and science colleges is essential aspect for consideration. Further, the research suggests an appropriate measures to condense the prevailing rate of employee turnover in Education sector. Adding to this the study one can observe how appropriate measures can help to condense the employee turnover in the Education Sector. Therefore, the present study can be beneficial to the education sector by retain their employees with a consequential benefit of reducing enhancing productivity.

Key words: Employee turnover, Employee recognition, job security.

INTRODUCTION

Education is teaching and learning definite skills, and also somewhat a smaller amount of tangible, but more thoughtful: the imparting of facts, favourable verdict, and sincere wisdom. Education has as solitary of its elementary aspects the conferring of culture from generation to generation.

LITERATURE REVIEW

Jack Worth et al. (2017) "Teacher Retention and Turnover Research: Interim Report" In this article they discuss that in the middle of 2010 and 2015, there has been a large decrease in the proportion of teachers who are elderly between 51 and 59. Our explore finds that this decrease is due to a combination of both a superior to average retirement and a superior rate of grownup teachers leaving over the period from one organisation to another organisation.

Peter Kwagyi-Aggrey (2016) "Assessment of Staff Retention in Private Universities in Ghana: A Study of the Perez University College, Winneba" This paper revealed that liberalisation of tertiary education in Ghana has lead to the formation of private universities together with the public universities in the provision of tertiary education. Employee turnover in private organization is very high due to following reasons, like less compensation, no job security, no promotion. On the average, about 54% lecturers and administrators leave every academic year for employment elsewhere.

Fairuz Chowdhury (2015) "Demographic Factors Impacting Employee Turnover in The Private Banking Sector of Bangladesh" we observed in this study the savings and investment perspective of the employee retention as a whole. The importance of turnover cannot be omitted regarding employee enactment and its related costs to the organisation. It is well documented that the profitability of an organisation generally negatively impacted by a high turnover rate of employees.

Usman Shah and Jangraiz Khan (2015) "An Analysis of the Factors Affecting Turnover Intentions: Evidence from Private Sector Universities of Peshawar" In view of this article, they find the defendant employs of private sector universities were asked if they get a chance to start a profession, whether they will again connect the same job. The options included strongly disagree, disagree, neutral, agree, and strongly agree. According to the results, 28% of the employ strongly disagree/disagreed with the declaration that they will reply the same organisation.

ABSTRACT

The people of our country were employed in all courses or fields of government and private sectors. It makes our nation nourish and cherish itself. Slowly minimalistic culture diminished and conspicuous culture sprouted. Though the growth of conspicuous culture was not that successful in those days of our ancestral period. But when the entry of Multi-National Companies (MNCs), Conspicuous Culture grew up to a level of No End. Consumers' Preferred to go after only branded Luxurious Product though it is too expensive and unaffordable, just to show that they also belong to a high society though they are not. This kind of Conspicuous buying is made successful through out decades. Online shopping is one of the sources of Conspicuous buying where we need not consume our precious time visiting shops to purchase Luxurious things.

ACCEPTED

INTRODUCTION

Our Society was of difference classes of people, namely upper, lower and middle class. People's buying behaviour was limited to an extent, to whichever class they belong. After independence, people were interested in expanding their wealth and business by adopting the minimalistic ways of buying or Consumption.

Minimalism is intentionally living with only the things which are really needed or those items that support for a purpose. This removes the distraction of excess possessions and can focus more on those things that matter most.

Our fore-fathers being the bread-winners of the family, lead a very smooth and simplified life by spending little with their little earnings, saved for their future needs too. They lived a happy life without huge debts and stress. But had a sound mind, peaceful sleep everyday.

Buyers of high society aimed for acquiring Cars, Royal Bikes, Bungalows in Posh Area, Expensive Designer Garments, Children are put in Convent Schools, Purchase of Commodities of daily use from Provisions, other Stores and Markets they don't like to bargain from street vendors.

In 20th century all classes of Buyers pretends to be from high society by buying Luxurious Cars and Apartments, Buying Expensive Ornaments and dress material frequently, Daily Shopping, Spending Time and money for outing and lodging. Educating Children in International or Residential Schools. Deputing their grown up to be a Doctor or Software Engineer and marriage arrangements are done in Luxurious Hotels, etc.

This purchase makes the conspicuous buyers come with some assurance that the user will have the best available device in their possession. However, far less expensive versions of the same device are also found in the market. Procuring such products primarily aims to drive a conversation around its acquisition and the fact that the owner could afford to make such an extravagant purchase.

OBJECTIVES

1. Conspicuous Consumers always wants to maintain their Status high and buy things which are sold in Branded Shops.
2. Conspicuous Consumers or buyers go in for branded garments or articles which are not available in all shops and not familiarly used by other costumers. They buy unique and exclusive collections to get differentiate from others.
3. Online buying is one factor that facilitates conspicuous consumers to purchase their requirements saving time of travel, selecting the shops.

METHODOLOGY APPLIED

Primary Data: The research is done through observation and collections data through questionnaires.

Secondary Data: Secondary data is Collected from journals, books and magazines to develop the theory.

Sample Size: The sample size is determined as 30 respondents opinion from the conspicuous customers who presently purchasing products with a Varied Sources.

MINIMALISTIC BUYING VS CONSPICUOUS BUYING

The following tables list a few points that differentiate Conspicuous buying from Minimalistic buying

Basis	Minimalistic buying	Conspicuous buying
1. Concept	Buying Goods which are necessary	Buying Goods for fantasy or Luxurious.
2. Lifestyle	Simple lifestyle	Hi-fide or cosmopolitan lifestyle
3. Features	It is marked by clarity, purpose and intentionality	It is marked by new fashion and without intention.
4. Motto	"Less is More"	"More is not Enough"
5. Basis of Society	Consumption-Based Society.	Capitalism-Based Society.

ADVANTAGES OF CONSPICUOUS BUYING

1. Conspicuous consumption is exemplified by purchasing goods exclusively designed to serve as symbols of wealth, like luxury-brand labels on clothing, high-tech tools and toys, sport footwears and accessories, smartphones ,vehicles and other latest Technologies.
2. Buying Conspicuous products give satisfaction to the buyers because of its' uniqueness and quality.
3. Advanced technologies like online buying permits the conspicuous customer's to keep on with the company information rationalized.
For example, while there are many types of high-end smartphones on the market from major manufacturers, specialty smartphones created strictly as luxury items have also been produced.

FINDINGS :

1. It is suggested that ratio of male customers is very high in online shopping with 52%
2. From the study Sport person is the conspicuous buyer of the sports footwear and accessories.
3. It is analysed that Consumer are satisfied through purchasing digital marketing.
4. It is described that Conspicuous buyers have higher consideration on Status.
5. It is considered that Highest purchase frequency is twice in a year
6. The study reveals that Latest Style of buying is Conspicuous buying with 53%.
7. Awareness about online purchase is less with 32%
8. Income of the respondent falls between Rs.40,000 to Rs. 60,000.

SUGGESTIONS:

1. There should be transparent and good service provided to the buyers
2. Creating awareness among the consumers about online purchase where they can get branded commodities with all features.
3. Product description, price is to be given with clarity.
4. Quality of Goods to be maintain in online selling.

CONCLUSION

As most of the participants regard themselves in middle class, the survey supports one of the arguments in the study that “ People in middle class attach more importance to conspicuous consumption”. Moreover, as high-income people and people who regard themselves in middle, upper middle and super class generally prefer brand , innovational and even precious products, the opinion that says “there is status and prestige anxiety behind this choice, gets stronger.

An assessment was made about middle class's hurry to reach consumption patterns and consumption behaviour of the super class with the idea of people in low income group who are called as moderate in society can do conspicuous consumption as well as people in “super class” who are called as “ rich” in society can do conspicuous consumption. Hereby, it is concluded that although people are not placed in leisure class in Veblen's “conspicuous consumption” theory that has been survived until today, lots of people spend more then their limit.
